

This is a TOY

This is a COMMITMENT

Did you know:

- Rabbits are not suitable pets for young children.
- Most rabbits don't like being held and are easily injured if dropped.
- The average lifespan of a rabbit is 7–10 years.
- It is important to spay or neuter a rabbit and provide veterinary care.
- Rabbits should be housed indoors and provided with a safe exercise space.

Before you get a rabbit, get the facts.

For more information on rabbit care, get our Bunny Basics article, an introductory guide to rabbit care and behavior.

Make Mine Chocolate!™

Before you bring a rabbit into your home at Easter, please consider these facts:

- Rabbits are NOT low-maintenance pets! They require as much work as a dog or cat.
- Rabbits can live 8–10 years, sometimes longer.
- The necessary spay or neuter can cost $100 or more, and rabbits require routine veterinary care.
- Rabbits are not cuddly—they can become frightened when held!
- Pet rabbits cannot be set “free” – it is a death sentence.

This easter, why not make it a CHOCOLATE bunny or a cuddly stuffed toy instead? Let's make it a Happy Easter for bunnies, too!

Help spread the word that rabbits are NOT disposable pets.
